

Make data-driven decisions with Bold Reports®

Challenges

When you're operating a business, data is everything. Cid Benac, the Owner of Benco Systems, wanted to gain actionable insights into his company, so he began looking for tools to visualize and share Benco Systems' data.

That's when he discovered Bold Reports®—a flexible, self-service reporting tool that can be tailored to any company's needs. He'd previously used Syncfusion® components to build his Blazor web app, so adding Bold Reports® to his digital toolkit was a no-brainer.

Solution

With Bold Reports®, Cid gained the confidence to make data-driven decisions for his business. "It worked the way I wanted," he said. "In addition to generating a report to print, it can also be exported or emailed in almost any format. All of this is directly from the report page, where you can add custom buttons in the toolbar. It's really convenient."

When asked what feature he found to be the most helpful, Cid struggled to choose just one. "I like the Report Designer a lot, but I can't think of one feature that's better than the others. They all integrate together," he said. "The ability to have parameters you can set up in the code is also extremely useful."

And with our extensive user resources and documentation, Cid felt supported every step of the way. "The support team is really good. I mostly use the community forum when I need help, and answers come in a very reasonable time," he said. "Plus, they always include sample code and links to documents and additional sample code." Want to try Bold Reports® yourself? Start your 30-day free trial today.

Pull Quote

"Bold Reports is a great solution that should always be considered whenever possible."

- Marcos Mota